NAPLES, August 14.

DURING the late dreadful scarcity of provisions in this metropolis, one Clara Pignitelli, a widow, who had two children, the eldest not above eight years old, and the other just turned of six, being almost three days utterly destitute of food either for her unhappy little orphans or herself, formed the incredible resolution of preserving their lives, tho' at the expence of her own; for this purpose she actually proceeded to cut off some pieces of her flesh, and had made an incision into one of her thighs, when a relation, who suspected her circumstances to be desperate, entered the house with a supply both of money and provision, and found her bleeding on the floor, with the two children nearly exhausted thro' hunger, lying drenched in tears by her side, but entirely unable either to prevent the execution of her design, or to call for the least assistance or relief: by proper care she and her children are now in perfect health, and Providence has made this astonishing instance of maternal affection such a source of good fortune to the poor woman, that several of the nobility have subscribed pretty handsomely to her relief, and raised her a capital of two hundred pounds.

During the course of this week we have thrown into the sea 40,000 tomoli of corn from England, and 9000 from Holland, and a very considerable quantity is still to be cast into the sea. The malignant fevers continue to make great ravages in this city and parts adjacent; especially at Portici, which occasions a report, that the King will leave this place, and retire to the island Procita. According to a calculation said to be very exact, 19,707 have died in this capital in the first sixth months of the year; and but 4493 have been born. The number of deaths in the other parts of the kingdom, is 116,973, and the births 9346.

August 21. We cannot express our joy at seeing a decrease of the distempers that have so long afflicted this city: such as are yet seized with them easily recover. This mortality did put us in the greatest consternation; for in passing through the streets, scarce any thing was to be seen but people in mourning, almost all families having, more or less, lost some of their relations. Arts, manufactures and commerce, have greatly suffered by this calamity, but they now begin to revive.

Constantinople, July 16. The charges of the feast which was given on the 5th inst. by the Grand Vizir on occasion of the circumcision of his two sons, were defrayed by the Sultan, who was present at it incognito. For this purpose 250 purses have been delivered from his private treasury, amounting to 120,000 German florins.

Genoa, August 11. Paschal Paoli having lately taken into custody an inhabitant of a province of Corsica, beyond the mountains, a brother of this person, who lived at Venice, having had advice of it, immediately went over to Corsica, and found means to get his brother out of prison: after which they both put themselves at the head of some Peasants, marched in quest of Paoli's Partizans, and took several of them.

Vienna, August 11. There are divers conjectures on the motive which hath occasioned Count Mercy Argenteau, on his return from Warsaw, to stop in Hungary. Some think he is charged with a commission from the Empress Queen to the Malecontent Nobles of Poland, who have retired thither.

Stockholm, August 21. We have now actually thirteen ships of the line and seven gallies in good condition, and fit for sea; but as this armament is more than sufficient to check the insults of the Barbary rovers, it occasions a good deal of speculation.

Dantzick, August 23. The Magistrates of Dantzick, Thorn, and Elbing, have appointed Sunday the 26th inst. as a day of particular devotion, to implore the blessing of God on the approaching great event of the election of a King.

Leghorn, August 17. It is now pretended to be known from good authority, that the Republick of Genoa has concluded a treaty with France relative to Corsica, which is said to have been signed at Compeigne the 7th instant, and contains in substance, "That the King shall send seven battalions of his troops into Corsica, which shall stay there four years, and occupy the places allotted for them; which are, Bastia, Saint-Florent, Algagliola, and Ajaccio. That these troops shall not be engaged in the war, but only be employed in securing to the Republick the possession of these places: That his Most Christian Majesty shall furnish them their pay, and bread and meat; but the island shall find them fire, candle, forage, and lodging: That the republick shall be at no other expence but the stipulated subsidy. That in the places which the French troops shall occupy there shall be no Genoese, and the Republick's Representatives there shall take cognizance only of civil affairs. That if by the presence of these troops in the island, peace should be restored, the most Christian King shall be a guarantee to it. They shall be transported from France about the end of September, under convoy of two Frigates and two Xebecks from Toulon, after which these Frigates and Xebecks shall continue to cruise upon the coast of Corsica till the month of December."

The tenor of this treaty, supposing that it contains nothing more than appears, doth not seem of a nature to put a stop to the distresses of the island. It is to be feared that before the end of September the rebels will be masters of St. Florent, which they have already long blocked up, and then what will be the alternative? Must they continue in possession of it, or must the French take it from them?

LONDON.

August 23. It is now said, that for the greater encouragement of seamen to enter into his Majesty's service in case of any future war, that the very high bounty for information and entrance money, will be converted into another channel, by raising the wages of an able seaman from two and twenty and six pence to thirty shillings a month. This, with some beneficial alterations in the future distribution of prize-money, in which a Commander will not be rated as worth twenty thousand men in the article of sharing, it is thought, will induce the brave Tars to voluntarily serve their King and Country without the Government's being under the disagreeable necessity of having recourse to the unconstitutional method of pressing.

We learn that the Ministers of France and Vienna, at the Porte, have at least made an impression upon the Sultan, that will perhaps hinder the Polish Election from being carried on with that ease in favour of Count Poniatowski, that has been expected by his friends, and feared by his enemies. The rumour of a conjugal alliance between that Prince and a certain Empress, has been dexterously managed, to excite uneasy apprehensions in the mind of the Sultan, who cannot behold, with indifference, the tendency of this alliance to unite two great northern powers against the Ottoman Empire. Accordingly it is said, that the Grand Vizir has sent to the Prince Primate of Poland, a declaration to the following purpose: "That the Sublime Porte will see with pleasure a Piast chosen to the throne of Poland, provided that the choice does not fall on Count Poniatowski."

Extract of a letter from Vienna.

"---The sentiments of this Court are still the same; the remonstrances of the English Minister against its accession to the Family Pact, retarded, for some time, the conclusion of that affair; but since the Court of Great-Britain has declared itself satisfied with fair words, the negotiations have been renewed.---There is, indeed, a kind of Misunderstanding arisen between this Court and that of Naples; and the Court of Madrid interests itself warmly in behalf of the latter: If this incident does not produce ill blood, the accession of the Court of Vienna to the Family Pact will be soon confirmed by a formal treaty. It is said confidently, that the King of Sardinia will be drawn, if not by choice, at least by necessity, into this grand alliance, which portends ill to the Protestant Religion, and Liberties of Europe."

Letters from Vienna say, that the difference between the Imperial Court and that of Naples is happily adjusted; in consequence of which, a marriage will be set on foot between the King of the Two Sicilies and one of the Archdutchesses.

They write from Hanover, of the 14th inst. that a horse-stealer, who was apprehended at the Hamlet of Coldingen, about a German Mile from thence, and there confined, cut his keeper's head off (who it is supposed was asleep) and made his escape in the night between the 10th and 11th instant.

We are informed, that all the old treaties of commerce which have from time to time been made between Great-Britain and Portugal, within these hundred years past, are now under the consideration of an honourable Board, which is at present the more necessary, as it is said the latter have departed in divers material points of commerce from their original engagements, either to the advantage of foreigners, or by substituting new duties and exports on English goods, to the rendering a considerable balance of trade against our merchants, which was formerly in their favour.

Some late advices from France contradict the report that their flat-bottomed boats were all sold off; a few of them have only been hired by the Genoese; and others by their own merchants, in the coasting trade, who are obliged to keep them in proper repair. What are not dispersed in this manner, are carefully laid up at Havre de Grace, Rochelle, Dunkirk, Bayonne, and the other sea-ports of the kingdom.

August 25. Yesterday Morning about 600 sailors lately belonging to the Grafton and Lenox men of war, from the East-Indies, went to St. James's, to present a petition to his Majesty, praying that they may have their prize-money paid them; when his Majesty was pleased to signify to them, by the Lords in waiting, that he would give directions for forwarding the payment of it as speedily as possible; upon which they gave three cheers. His Majesty soon after getting into his coach to go to the Queen's palace, they followed the coach thither, huzzaing all the way.

The large body of sailors, who waited lately on Admiral Corniſh, to know in what manner they were to receive their prize-money for the captures of Karical and Pondicherry, have received for answer, "That he had made application to the Court of Directors of the East-India Company, on their behalf, for the produce arising from those captures, who signified, that they themselves are of opinion, and are also advised by their Council, that the company is entitled to all publick stores whatsoever taken from the enemy (being almost the whole, or principal part of the conquest) which is not in their power to give away or dispose of, or any part thereof; and which (excepting the sum of 100,000 Pagodas, of which 50,000 have been already distributed to the squadron, the other 50,000 Pagodas being to be distributed to the army) is the whole of the advantages arising to the captors from the said conquests; and that therefore no further satisfaction can be given to the captors, until such time as it is fully determined whether the company have a right to the said claim." Notwithstanding the above answer, the sailors waited on the Admiral again yesterday.

It is said that the French have lately made overtures for ceding New Orleans, with their entire lands on the Westward of the Mississippi, to the Crown of Great Britain; but all our islands, and other possessions in America, are so critically situated, that hardly any of them can be given in exchange; neither is there any likelihood that this accession can be made otherwise than by downright purchase.

August 28. At Denton, near Stilton, in Huntingdonshire, a common field pea was sown in the garden of Mr. Samuel Hoppers of that place, from whence have sprung this year 23 branches, on which were 249 pods, that produced a full Winchester quart of peas when shelled.

We are credibly informed, that for several months past scarce a smuggling cutter has gone over to France, without carrying some English sheep; for the transporting of which they are paid a bounty per head. In a pasture near Rowen in Normandy there are near 200, for the benefit of the great woollen manufactory carried on at that place, and to keep up the breed, the climate of Normandy agreeing nearly with that of England.

August 30. The following story is handed to us as matter of fact: An old fellow, well known in the neighbourhood of Rotherhithe, who goes by the nick name of Balaam, from his going about with an ass, and carrying greens, being irritated by some people playing tricks with his ass, was carried before a Magistrate, and fined 15 s. for swearing so many oaths. Balaam some days after passing along the street, and hearing the same Magistrate swear at his workmen, immediately went before another Magistrate, and laid his information against him for four oaths, which, as a Magistrate, being 5 l. an oath, amounted to 20 l. and was paid accordingly.

Letters from Ratisbon, dated the 14th instant, bring advice, that the Reigning Duke of Wurtemberg was arrived at his country palace of Louisburgh; but will not listen to any overtures or propofals that have been made to him by the Commissaries of the Courts of Vienna and Berlin; which had obliged them to send to their respective principals for fresh instructions. But notwithstanding the Duke's behaviour, the Commissaries proceed in their enquiries into the grievances complained of by the States and subjects of that dutchy against their Prince.

We hear from Piombino, that two Corsican feluccas, having met with two large Genoese pinks, attacked them, and took them, after an engagement which lasted an hour.

Tuesday evening died, at his house at Clapham in Surry, in the 81st year of his age, that great and worthy patriot Sir John Barnard, Knt. In the year 1722 he was chosen one of the city's representatives in parliament, in which important trust he, to the universal satisfaction of the whole city, continued in every parliament until the year 1761, when upon account of his age and infirmities, he, to his fellow citizens great regret, was obliged to decline. In the year 1727 he was chosen Alderman of Dowgate Ward, in the room of John Crawley, Esq; deceased, who enjoyed that office but a few months. In 1736 Sir John served with his brother in law, Sir Robert Goodschall, Knt. Alderman of Bishopsgate Ward, the office of Sheriff of this city and county of Middlesex; and in 1738 he served the high office of Lord Mayor. In this year he had the misfortuue to lose his Lady, who was buried in a very grand manner at Clapham church; the children belonging to Christ's Hospital, of which he was many years President, attending the funeral through the city. Upon the death of Sir John Thomson, Knt. in 1749, he removed, pursuant to act of Common Council, and took upon him the office of Alderman of Bridge Ward Without, and then became the real Father of the City; and in July 1758 he, to the regret of his Brother aldermen, resigned his gown. The great character of Sir John Barnard, as a steady, wise, and uncorrupt Senator, an able vigilant Magistrate, and a faithful and understanding Citizen, having been so long fully known and established, and having also received numberless repeated testimonies of approbation; any encomiums, that could be here offered, as they would be quite needless, so would they fall infinitely short in representing the noble inflexible conduct he invariably pursued, to promote the true welfare and happiness of his King and Country; and particularly respecting those important trusts he was, for so considerable a period, repeatedly called upon and solicited to undertake by the united entreaties of his grateful Fellow Citizens.

We are informed, that among other advantages procured to this kingdom from the Duke of York's tour through Italy, divers English Merchants, settled at Leghorn, Genoa, Naples, &c. have been admitted to the privilege of free citizens, through the mediation of his Royal Highness.

Sept. 1. The Leiden Gazette, under the article London, tells us, that it is insinuated here, that the Earl of Rockfort is not very easy at the Court of Madrid: but that the Spanish Ministry, nevertheless, seem very much disposed to fulfil all the stipulations of the late peace towards the English, with whom the nation in general is by no means disposed to break.

Monday last the wife of a poor man in Old-street bought an old stuff chair of a Broker near that place, for 8d. When she carried it home, her husband abused her for making so miserable a purchase, and a scuffle ensued; on moving the chair, something was heard to jingle, and the seat being cut open, they found 150 guineas, which had been concealed there; which terminated the scuffle to their mutual satisfaction.

Sept. 4. Yesterday died, at the Royal Observatory in Greenwich Park, after a tedious indisposition, greatly lamented, the Rev. Mr. Nathaniel Bliss, M. A. and fellow of the Royal Society. He succeeded, more than 20 years since, the late eminent Dr. Halley, as Civilian Professor of Geometry at Oxford; and about 2 years, the no less eminent Dr. Bradley, as Regius Professor of Astronomy. In Mr. Bliss the world has lost an able and experienced Astronomer and Mathematician, his disconsolate widow one of the best of husbands, and his large family a tender and affectionate parent.

They write from Scotland, that they have had the finest harvest in all the parts of that kingdom, this year, that has been remembered for 40 years past.

From several parts of the kingdom we have received advice, that the harvest was mostly got in, and every where there was great abundance.

His Grace the Duke of Dorset, Lord Warden of the Cinque Ports, has appointed Lieut. Colonel William Amherst Deputy Governor of Sandgate-Castle, near Hythe, in the room of his brother Sir Jefferey Amherst, who has resigned.

The Court of Portugal have strictly prohibited, under severe penalties, all ship-masters or others, from carrying over any Jesuits, or other suspected persons, without first obtaining a special licence for so doing, from his Majesty's principal Secretary of State.

Extract of a Letter from Paris.

"Monsr. Van Robais, who carries on a very extensive woollen manufactory at Abbeville, has lately received a premium of 2000 livres for the fabricating a piece of broadcloth, pronounced by good judges to come the nearest to that of England, both in fineness, texture, and dye, to any hitherto made in France: It is computed he has near 60 tuns of Irish wool in his warehouses for the purposes of carrying on this beneficial manufacture."

Sept. 6. They write from Frankfort of the 22d ult. that a difference hath subsisted for some time, between the Houses of Hessia Homburg and Hessia Darmstadt, which was left to the Princess of the Circle of the Upper Rhine to decide; when, after having had several meetings and conferences at the Dominican Monastery at the above-mentioned city, it was by them referred to the Imperial High Court of Justice; but the Prince of Darmstadt finding the determination too tedious, ordered a strong command of Hussars to enter Homburgh the 13th ult. and to patrole night and day that Prince's territories.

The French King has issued a declaration for the apprehending of all vagabonds and people who have no visible way of livelihood, in the different provinces of his kingdom. Children under the age of 16, are to be sent to the charity-hospitals or work-houses, and there instructed and supported, and not to be permitted to quit them but by the King's order. All in general who are able, both men and women, old and young, are to be made for the future to earn their subsistence.

Sept. 8. On Tuesday night between nine and ten o'clock, Mr. Robinson of Old Bond-street was robbed by a single foot-pad near the Foundling Hospital, of a gold watch, fifteen guineas in gold, and nine shillings in silver, in the following manner: As soon as the fellow came up with Mr. Robinson, he threw some Scotch snuff in his eyes, then told him he must have all his money and other valuable effects about him, and immediately searched his pockets, and took out the sum above-mentioned; then cut the waistband of his breeches, and left him in great agonies with his eyes filled with snuff. It was lucky for Mr. Robinson that he, by holding a handkerchief to his eyes, hid a diamond ring of great value, which the fellow otherwise certainly must have seen.

We are informed that orders have been very lately transmitted to his Majesty's Commanders in the West-Indies, to stop all victualling ships from Ireland, to the French and Spanish islands. Their cargoes are to be paid for, and appropriated for the use of the British garrisons in that part of the world.

Sept. 13. We are assured, that the important question, relating to the Legality of General Warrants, on which the Liberty of this Country so essentially depends, will certainly come on before an august Assembly, immediately after their meeting.

Capt. Roos, Master of a Dutch ship from Teneriff, is arrived at Malaga, who reports, that on the passage the crew of a Saletine rover came on board his vessel, and plundered it of several effects of value.

Tuesday last the Tilbury, a fine new seventy four gun ship, lately launched at Blackwall, fell down to Woolwich to take in her masts, in order to be fitted for sea with the utmost expedition.

BOSTON, October 29.

We hear that on Tuesday the 23d Instant, was committed to his Majesty's Goal in Taunton, one Jonathan Sheppardson, of Attleborough, on Suspicion of murdering one Benjamin Hide, of the same Place; the Particulars of which, as nearly as have been collected, are these: On Monday the 22d Instant, a little after Sun-rise, the said Sheppardson being gone some small Distance from his House, on his own Land, was alarmed by a very great Outcry, and presently after found himself surrounded by 20 or 30 Men, entirely disguised, and armed with Clubs. Sheppardson seeing this, drew out a long Knife he had with him, and stood on his Defence; but the Mob pressed in upon him, and Hide being one of them, was the first that closed in with him; at which Time, it is supposed, he received a Wound from Sheppardson, of which he died in about Half an Hour after; several others received bad Wounds in their Endeavours to take him, but none mortal; they continued their Attacks till they had subdued him, and then dragged him to the Highway, where they still insulted him. Soon after they were informed that Hide was dead, upon which they all withdrew, and Sheppardson went immediately to a Justice, and submitted himself. It seems it had been for some Time rumoured in that Neighbourhood, that Sheppardson had been guilty of some bad Family Conduct, and it was determined he should be punished by a certain Law, by the Vulgar called Skimmington, of which the most unruly Part of the Community sit Judges.

NEW-YORK, November 1.

We hear from Eusopus, in the District of Paltz, in this Province, that the Week before last two Men of that Place, who were Brothers, being in a Swamp hunting for Deer one of them mistaking the other for a Deer, fired at him, and shot a Bullet through his Body, of which he instantly died.

We hear from New-Jersey, that on Wednesday, the 24th ultimo, a Boy, about 12 Years of Age, Son of Mr. Samuel Marsh of Woodbridge, being on the fore Horse of a Team with a loaded Waggon, descending a Hill, the Horse fell, and threw him, and before he could recover himself the Waggon went over his Breast, and crush'd him to Death instantly. The same Afternoon three other Boys nearly of the same Age, each with a Team, hearing of the Accident, call'd in at Mr. Marsh's House to look at the Deceased as he lay dead in the House. After they went away, one of the Boys said to the other, that the Deceased must have been foolish, else that after the Horse fell he might have got out of the Way of the Waggon. Some time after on the Road the Boy who had made this Observation, fell from his Cart, the Wheel of which went over him, he got up and run a little Way, and then fell and immediately expired.

The same Day a Man fell from a Saw-Mill, at or near Ash-Swamp, in New-Jersey, and was killed.

November 5. A very valuable Coal Mine is just discovered within the Limits of the Town of Newport, on Rhode Island, in the Lands of Capt. Benjamin Almy.

PHILADELPHIA, November 8.

Yesterday BENJAMIN FRANKLIN, Esq; appointed an Agent for this Province at the Court of Great-Britain, set out for Chester, in order to embark on board the King of Prussia, Capt. Robinson, for London; when he was accompanied by a great Number of the reputable Inhabitants, from both City and County.

Saturday the 27th of last Month, about Noon, a Fire broke out in the Court-House in Perth-Amboy, which entirely consumed all the Wooden Work of it. The Fire first began in the Cupola, to which it was supposed to have been carried by the high Wind from a Spark out of one of the Chimnies; and tho' it was discovered before it got to any Heighth, yet for Want of an Engine, and by the Steepness of the Roof, all Endeavours to extinguish it were ineffectual.

The same Night departed this Life, at Perth-Amboy, after a lingering Illness, the Honourable Samuel Nevill, Esq; Second Judge of the Supreme Court of the Province of New-Jersey: He was turn'd of 66 Years of Age, and had long sustained the Office of a Judge with unblemish'd Integrity and Honour: He was also a Proprietor of the Eastern Division; and was many Years one of the Representatives in Assembly, in which Station he often fill'd the Speaker's Chair with Dignity and Applause: And the City of Perth-Amboy lose in him their Mayor. In all his Offices he was a faithful Friend and Servant to the Publick, and his Death in that Province is universally regretted.

Tuesday Morning last a melancholy Sight was discovered in the House of one William Peterkop, a Skinner, in Wood-street, in the Northern Liberties of this City, himself and two Children lying dead on the Bed, and his Wife in a speechless Condition. The Coroner's Inquest found the Cause of their Death to be Suffocation by a Pot of Charcoal in the Room, which was close. They all appeared to have been vomiting, or striving to vomit; the Woman is since dead.

Since our last arrived here Captain Ayres, from London, and Captain Edgar from Rotterdam; the latter with Palatines.

DRESDEN, August 27.

COUNT Henry de Bruhl has formally demanded of Prince Xavier, Administrator General of the Electorate, the holding of a council of war, to examine for what reason he has been deprived of his regiment; a spoilation which may hurt his character, and be ill interpreted by his enemies.

Vienna, Aug. 29. According to some advices from Hungary, a corps of 30,000 Spahis is in march from the neighbourhood of Belgrade towards Moldavia and Wallachia; so that there are actually near 60,000 Turks upon the confines of Transylvania and Poland.

Warsaw, Aug. 29. The 27th instant the states of the republic having assembled in the neighbourhood of this city, opened the Dyet of Election. Intending to conform to one of the decrees of Dyet of Convocation, which forbids the bringing of any affair on the carpet before the nomination of a Marshal, they immediately proceeded thereto, and the votes having been collected, the choice fell upon Count Sosnowsky, Grand Notary of Lithuania. Whereupon this Nobleman, having taken the truncheon of his office, adjourned the sitting to the next day. At this second meeting they took some precautions, that the election and the proclamation may be made with all possible order and decency.

Hamburgh, Sept. 4. They write from Silesia, that cannon and warlike stores are daily arriving there; that the King of Prussia has reviewed the regiments which were encamped under Briege; and that a body of Austrians, commanded by General Laudohn, is forming in Upper Silesia, while another body of the same troops is assembling in Moldavia, near Olmutz.

Hamburgh, Sept. 6. Letters from Thorn of the 31st of August, and those from Berlin of the 5th of Sept. mention not a word of the election of a King of Poland.

LONDON.

Sept. 6. At the three places of rendezvous lately opened at Wapping, for entering sailors, none are admitted but those who are good and able seamen, well cloathed, and have likewise chest and bedding.

Sept. 11. Letters from Upper Silesia bring advice, that on the 12th ult. there happened the most violent storm that ever was known, attended with thunder and lightning, the latter of which penetrated into 50 places in the circuit of about 27 English miles. Several buildings were set on fire, and in the castle of Jagersdorff it occasioned a very great one. A great number of people were killed and wounded, and other very considerable damages done.

We hear from Constantinople, that a Moor, who had been 20 years a slave at Marseilles, and afterwards remained near as long in Egypt, has presented a plan to the Grand Vizir, the design of which is to shew, that the ancient passage from the Mediterranean into the Red-Sea, which was compleated by the Caliph Omar, A. D. 635, and which was shut up on the side of the sea by the Caliph Abugiafar Almanzor, A. D. 775, may be very easily restored, rendered navigable, and become thereby, not only a means of keeping Egypt in subjection, but of adding largely to the revenues of the Turkish empire. It is however apprehended, that this specious proposition will be liable to many political objections.

Sept. 13. Monday a considerable quantity of china was seized by two Custom-house officers in a single horse chaise upon Westminster-bridge: not being able to convey it immediately to the Custom-house, they lodged it at the Golden-Cross at Charing-Cross. There were sixty of the finest dishes ever seen, besides silks, and many other things, to a considerable value. They appeared to be the property of a Right Hon. Personage.

Sept. 14. The Committee for the relief of the Palatines met yesterday at Batson's Coffee-house, in consequence of a summons from the treasurer, who had received an immediate answer by letter from Lord Halifax, acquainting them his Majesty had most graciously granted the full request of their petition, and that the Palatines should be sent to, and established in South-Carolina; and that 150 stands of arms should be delivered out for the use of the said German Protestants: Whereupon the Committee resolved to publish proposals for contracting with Commanders of ships for their immediate passage and maintenance to South-Carolina.

We are told by one of the Dutch Gazettees, that Col. St-----, who brought over the poor Palatines, had also engaged some young Dutchmen of good family to follow him, giving to one the title of Captain in chief of 20 families, to others those of Lieutenant, Secretary, &c.

The Dey of Algier complains of our lending our flag and passports to foreigners; and we are given to understand, that we must think seriously of redressing this abuse, if we would avoid the resentment of the Dey, who has dispatched hither an Englishman express to deliver this message on his part.

The Courts of France and Spain not having agreed about the exchange of Louisiana for the Spanish part of the island of Domingo, we are assured that the first of those two Courts has lately made overtures to that of England, for the cession of New Orleans and of all Louisiana to the west of the Mississippi: but as France demands in exchange some of the English islands in the West-Indies, and as the Court of Great-Britain does not seem disposed to part with any one of those islands, it is not likely that Louisiana will pass under the dominion of England, except by the way of acquisition.

Letters from Dresden, and the neighbouring countries, mention the return of several great families into Poland, who had left that kingdom, and retired there on account of the late unsettled situation of that country, and seemed happy of being governed by Stanislaus the Second.

Private letters from Germany mention the great progress which has been made in the present attempts of the re-union of the lake of Schwerin with the Baltick sea.

At the late hunting-match between the Electors of Mentz and Palatine, besides other game, there were no less than one hundred and four stags killed within the space of about three hours.

Letters from Florence, dated August 16, say, in all appearance all communication will be stopped between the ports of Leghorn and Naples. They deliver no more letters which come from the latter, although they have submitted to all the precautions used in the Lazaret.

They write from Brest, that 300 families embarked the 24th of August last, for the French settlements of Cayenne in the West-Indies: a considerable number were also to be shipped off from Port L'Orient in a few days for the same place.

Notwithstanding the various conjectures with regard to the men of war now fitting out, certain it is their place of destination is kept a profound secret. It is however said, a considerable squadron will sail by the latter end of September, but whither bound, perhaps even the Admiral himself may not be permitted to know till his arrival in a certain latitude.

It is now said the benefit accruing to the revenue from only entering on the custom and excise books the large quantity of seizable goods now on the Isle of Man, will amount to a sum little short of one hundred thousand pounds sterling.

The demand of woollens for the Spanish trade has, for some weeks past, been considerably increased---a happy presage that our staple manufactures, when properly encouraged, cannot be equalled by any other nation, notwithstanding the most treacherous practices of France and Holland.

We hear that a Parliamentary enquiry will be made next session into the state of the inferior clergy, and of those who hold pluralities, with the view of redressing the hardships the former labour under.

Mr. Philip Nesbit, who died a few days ago at his lodgings in Chancery-Lane, was formerly a Corporal in the Guards, and the person, who in the time of the rebellion, in the year 1745, at the imminent danger of his life (without any assistance) apprehended Mr. Murray, the Pretender's Secretary, at his sister's house, notwithstanding there were then in the house near 20 people, and carried him prisoner to Edinburgh, which was 25 miles distant; for which service he was generously rewarded by the government.

Sept. 17. The petition presented to his Majesty in behalf of the Palatines last Wednesday, was in the names of Peregrine Cust, George Prescot, Wm. Fitzherbert, and Robert Nettleton, Esquires, in behalf of themselves and the rest of the subscribers and contributors to the Palatines relief. After a representation, that these poor people were inveigled to England, and then deserted by the Sieur S-----, under pretence of providing for them in his Majesty's plantations in America, this petition concludes with, "praying his Majesty to take their hard case into his royal consideration, and to order them to be sent to such of his dominions in America as shall be thought proper, together with a grant of lands free from quit-rents, as was lately conferred on the poor French Protestants in South-Carolina."

They write from Dresden, that a Secretary of the Marquis de Paulmy d'Argenson, the French Ambassador to the Republick of Poland, having discovered the secrets of the embassy to the Czartorinsky party, had been hanged up at the Greve as soon as the Ambassador arrived at Paris. This Secretary was a native of Saxony, and born at Dresden.

Letters from Italy, by Saturday's mails, say, that a Sovereign of that country (who is not named) is going immediately to abdicate his dominions in favour of his son.

The Duke of York, when he was last at Genoa, made a present of a superb chariot (built at London) to Miss Angelica Durazzo, with the arms of that Lady painted thereon; in return for the very great attention paid to his Royal Highness by the Durazzo family.

Yesterday their Royal Highnesses the Princess Dowager of Wales, the Princes William, Henry, and Frederick, with the Princesses Louisa and Carolina, dined with his Royal Highness the Duke of York, at his house in Pall-Mall.

Sept. 18. The Committee for the relief of the Palatines met on Friday at Batson's Coffee-house, and from the best information resolved that it is necessary to continue the subscription, that care may be taken in America to procure provisions for those people, till they can support themselves; and also to carry them to the lands set out for them by his Majesty's directions, that they may not be separated by private contracts, but be kept together, or in proper numbers, and settled as most useful to themselves, and to the public.

The Little Carpenter, Muir, from South Carolina; the Lark, Jones, from North-Carolina, last from Philadelphia; and the Charming Polly, Copeland from ditto, last from New York; are arrived at Dover.

Letters from Segovie in Spain of the 20th ult. bring advice, that the differences between the Courts of Great Britain and Spain, about the logwood cutters in the Bay of Honduras, were terminated in an amicable manner.

St. James's, Sept. 15. The damages done to an English merchant ship, which was, by mistake, attacked in May last by the Commodore of some Spanish xebeques cruising against the Algerines in the Mediterranean, were immediately repaired out of the Spanish arsenal at Carthagena; and, in consequence of the representations made, on that subject, by his Majesty's Ambassador at the Court of Madrid, his Catholic Majesty has given orders for defraying the expence of the cure of the English who were wounded in that attack, for indemnifying the English Captain for the loss of time occasioned thereby, and for giving a gratification to the passenger, who unfortunately lost his arm by a shot from the Spanish xebeque.

CHARLES-TOWN, in South-Carolina, October 5.

The following is the most particular account we have been able to procure of the success of the several parties of Cherokees that went out last summer, at the request of the Hon. John Stuart, Esq; Superintendant of this district, against the enemy Indians.

"Willanawaw, with a party of 70 men, after a long march, discovered several canoes going down the Ohio, considerably to the eastward of Fort L'Assumption; upon a near approach he found the canoes were loaded with deer and beaver skins, and that there were 4 people in them, who looked like French. Willanawaw's people thinking the French had nothing to do in places which they were told had been given up to the Great King, and being in fear of their giving intelligence to the enemy, attacked and killed several that were in the canoes, and brought in four scalps.

"A party from Chote brought in one scalp.

"A party from Settiquo took a northward Indian in the woods.

"Kinneteta, with a party from Highwassee, brought in a northward Indian's scalp, and the Slave-Catcher, Tomwawtly, brought in another.

"The Second-Man of the Great-Island, and the parties from the Lower Towns, returned unsuccessful, being about five men fewer than when they went away, but whether dead, lost in the woods, or killed, is uncertain."

Our letters from the Lower Cherokees are dated 12 days ago, and assure us, every thing is quiet and peaceable throughout the whole nation.

One of the 5 Indians mentioned above as missing from the Second-Man of the Great-Island's party, was taken prisoner by the enemy Indians, and carried about three days march below Fort L'Assumption; on the night fixed for committing him to the flames, he happily made his escape, and got back to the Cherokee nation. He says he was carried to a good French settlement, where he remained during the whole time of his captivity; in the same town was a great French warrior [officer] with several of less note under him, who were collecting large quantities of ammunition, and sending for many different nations of Indians, who came in great numbers, and were received with much ceremony and appearance of friendship. The French gave them strong talks, with guns, powder, flints, knives and tomahawks, which they bid them use against the English and their allies, desiring them at the same time not to trouble them with prisoners, but to knock up all the English, Cherokees, &c. &c. which came in their way. When the Indian came to Fort L'Assumption he found it entirely evacuated, nothing being left but tobacco, of which there was plenty; he was reduced to a mere skeleton, having been in the woods upwards of six weeks without a gun, or so much as a knife, having nothing to support him but roots. His brother, and two more of his party were killed, and the other burnt. He is positive that the ammunition is sent off by the French to the Indians at war with the English, and says the French officer was to go down the river.

Oct. 22. The 15th of August the Handsome Fellow, a Creek Indian, in the name of the Mortar, of the Oakchoys, delivered a talk at Augusta, to be sent to the Governors of this province and Georgia, with a string of white beads to the former, and a white wing to the latter, declaring, "his sorrow for the mischief he had done, or caused to be done, to the English, during his attachment to the French; desiring forgiveness; promising unalterable fidelity to the King of Great Britain; and requesting that the trade might be continued through the old path only, from Augusta."

Since the above period, we hear, that the said Mortar, and other Creeks, declare, they will take all goods coming into their nation, as presents, but will not hurt the white people; being determined to suffer no trade but through the first, old, and beloved path.

The Upper Chicasahs, we are informed, have lately sent some tobacco to the Creek Lower Towns, desiring, that if they intend to continue in friendship with the English, they will smoke it, if not, send it back; at the same time signifying, that it was now out of the Creeks power to prevent their receiving supplies of goods, by killing traders, &c. since they have a new path opened from Pensacola and Mobile. The Cussitahs smoked the tobacco, and the other towns, it was thought, would follow their example.

Some of the Over Hill Cherokees are gone to a treaty with the Chicasahs and Chactahs; the rest of that nation, have begun their winter hunt.

On Wednesday last arrived here the ship Friendship, Captain Samuel Ball, jun. from London, with about 120 tons of ordnance and stores on board, for St. Augustine, consisting of near 60 mortars, &c. and 23 heavy cannon, &c.

The same day put in here to refit, the ship Tracey, Captain Robert Pring, from Boston, bound for Cape-Fear, having lost her mizen and main masts, and shifted her ballast, in a gale of wind she met with in the night of the 5th instant off Cape Hatteras.

Thursday also put in here, very leaky, the ship Generous Planters, Captain John Calfe, from St. Christopher's for London. She left St. Christopher's the 28th ult. and sprung a leak the 2d instant.

The sloop Industry, Wilson Cooke, master, from Winyah, for some time looked upon as a missing vessel, after being 102 days at sea, and relieved by ten different vessels, arrived at Madeira the 1st ult.

The 8th of August last, Captain George Ball, from Providence, with dispatches from his Excellency General Shirley, and on the 19th his Majesty's ship Venus, commanded by Captain Weller, with letters from Sir William Burnaby, commander in chief of his Majesty's ships at Jamaica, to the Count d'Estaing, Governor General of Hispaniola, touching the extraordinary conduct of the French some time before, towards his Majesty's subjects raking salt on Turks-Island, "in removing and carrying his Majesty's said subjects prisoners to Cape-Francois, burning their huts, and destroying their provisions," arrived at the Cape, and delivered their dispatches, but were told that the Governor General was not then in that capital; upon which, on the 22d, they proceeded to Turks-Island, where, on Grand-Key, they found a Monument or Column erected, 10 feet wide at the base, and 60 feet high, built of brick and soft mortar, with a square piece of marble fixed therein bearing this inscription, Homines ad Deos nulla re proprius accedunt quam salutem hominibus dando; and over it, "PHARE DE CHOISEUL," in large letters of iron; and as it did not appear to them, that a monument in this place could be of the least service to trade and navigation, but that it was rather intended as a mark of possession, &c. they immediately proceeded to undermine, and destroyed it in two hours.---Another of these Columns was erected on Sand Key, but as that might be of service to shipping, it was left standing.---Some time after, the Count d'Estaing sent a vessel to Jamaica, and another to Providence, with answers to the letters that had been delivered by the Captains Weller and Ball; which, we hear, alledged, as a reason for their removal of the English from Turks-Island, that they had robbed a French ship cast away there; and that the PHAROS was erected with no other view than for the general good of mankind, and preservation of shipping. Nevertheless, we are informed, that a few English, who still remain on Turks-Island, have been obliged to acknowledge allegiance to the French King, by signing a paper, the contents whereof they were strangers to. The report of two other monuments having been erected, by the French, on Maguana and the Caicos's, seems to have no foundation; neither had they yet put any soldiers or settlers on any of the islands.

October 29. The brig Hannah, Thomas Brown, master, from Boston, for Cape-Fear, is arrived at the port of her destination, after losing both her masts in the night of the 5th instant, off Cape-Hatteras, in the same gale of wind which dismasted Captain Pring's ship, who put in here the 17th.

November 2. On Wednesday last Solomon Hughes and the Creek Indian were executed pursuant to their sentence. The Indian had four interpreters at his trial; he was one of those taken by Salloue or the Young Warrior of Estatoe in the Cherokees, and by him delivered to the commanding officer of Fort Prince-George; he was convicted of having murdered a settler named Bennefield, near Long-Canes.

The snow Eagle, James Hutton, master, that sailed from this port 22d August last for Antigua, with a cargo of lumber, and 71 barrels of rice, overset in the night of September 8th, in lat. 28. 44. N. and long. 65 30. The people were 12 hours on the bottom of the vessel before the boat came up, on board of which they all got. On the 3d day the carpenter died, whose body they eat, after taking out the intrails. On the 9th day they cast lots in the boat which of them should be killed, for the sustenance of the rest, and as they were going to lay hold of the wretched victim, in order to put him to death, they observed a vessel becalmed, which they made for, and found to be a schooner from South-Key, in North-Carolina, which carried them into St. Christopher's, September 29th.

Burlington, New-Jersey, November 10, 1764.

ON Tuesday last, being the Day appointed for holding the Supreme Court, for the Province of New-Jersey, at Burlington, the honourable FREDERICK SMYTH, Chief Justice for the Province, accompanied by the Judges of the Supreme and Inferior Courts, and several other Persons of Distinction in the Province, took his Seat on the Bench, and soon after pronounced a Charge to the Grand Jury, setting forth the Excellency of the British Constitution; the admirable Institution of Trials by Juries; and, with great Clearness and Perspicuity, described the Office and Duty of a Jury. In the Course of his Charge he took Occasion, in a Manner which did Honour to himself, and gave great Satisfaction to all the Bystanders, to inculcate the Duties of Religion and Loyalty, as the most effectual Means to secure domestic and public Happiness. The Grand Jury, after their Business was dispatched, but before they left the Court, presented the following Address to the Chief Justice.

To FREDERICK SMYTH, Esq; Chief Justice of the Province of New-Jersey.

WE, the Grand Jury for the County of Burlington, embrace this first Opportunity of congratulating you on your safe Arrival in this Province, and Accession to the Office of Chief Justice.

It is a Matter of the highest Satisfaction to us, and Importance to the Province in general, to behold, in your Honour, a Successor, from whose Abilities, and early Disposition of inculcating the Principles of true Religion and Virtue, we have Reason to hope for a Continuance of every domestic and public Happiness in the Power of a Chief Justice to bestow, consistent with the Trust reposed in him, which we conceive will be the most effectual Means of rendering your Conduct acceptable to His most gracious Majesty, and making your Administration easy and happy among us; to effect which, any Endeavours of ours will not be wanting.

By Order of the Grand Jury,
HENRY PAXSON, Foreman.

To which the Chief Justice immediately returned the following Answer.

GENTLEMEN of the Grand Jury,

I Thank you most heartily for your kind Congratulations on my Arrival in this Province.

The good Opinion you are pleased to entertain of me, and this public Testimony of your Approbation of my Sentiments, give me the highest Satisfaction, as it proceeds from Gentlemen so deservedly respectable in this County.

As it is my fixed Determination to discharge the Duties of my Office with the utmost Integrity and Impartiality, and to conduct myself by Rules of Behaviour becoming my Station, allow me, Gentlemen, to hope, that I ſhall be found, in ſome Degree, deſerving the Truſt repoſed in me by His Majeſty; and not unworthy the Approbation and Eſteem of the good People of this Province.

PHILADELPHIA, November 15.

Extract of a Letter from a Gentleman in Paris, to his Friend at Philadelphia, March 1764.

"I cannot conclude this Letter without informing you, that Mr. JOHN MORGAN, of your City, has delivered in a Memoir to the Royal Academy of Surgery at Paris; on which a very favourable Report has been made by the Committee appointed to examine it. The Report concludes in theſe Words, viz.

"On aura donc toujours Obligation à Monſieur MORGAN d'avoir le premier divulgué les Connoiſſances qu'il a acquiſes ſur cette Matiere, heureux Fruits d'un Travail ſoutenu, avec une Conſtance et une Ardeur ſans egale. Il ne me reſte plus qu'à porter mon Jugement ſur le Memoire de Monſieur MORGAN; c'eſt pourquoi perſuadé qu'il ne peut être que fort utile à l'Academie, et augmenter ſes Richeſſes Anatomiques; je crois qu'elle doit accepter la Dedicace que l'Autheur lui a faite de ſon Ouvrage, le remercier, et lui donner des Marques de ſa Reconnoiſſance en lui accordant la Place d'Aſſocié à l'Academie; Place que ſa Qualité, ſon Merite perſonnel, ſes Ouvrages, et ſon Devouement à l'Academie Royale de Chirurgie de Paris, ſemblent lui avoir acquis à juſte titre."

"We muſt therefore always look on ourſelves obliged to Mr. MORGAN, for having firſt divulged to us the Knowledge which he has acquired in this Matter, the happy Fruits of an Application, purſued with a Conſtancy and Ardour not to be equalled. It remains only that I give in my Opinion on Mr. MORGAN's Memoir; which is, that I am perſuaded it cannot but be very uſeful to the Academy, in encreaſing her Anatomical Treaſures; and I think we ought thankfully to accept the Dedication the Author has made us of his Work, and to ſhew him Marks of our Eſteem, by giving him the Place of a Member of the Academy; a Place to which his perſonal Merit and Accompliſhments, his Works, and his Reſpect for the Royal Academy of Surgery at Paris, ſeem juſtly to intitle him."

In a Letter from Stanton, in Virginia, dated October 26, it is ſaid, that on the 29th of September the Indians killed one Crawford and his Wife, and burnt their Houſe and Barn, with a great Quantity of Grain in it: And that on the Firſt of October they burnt the Houſe of William Patton, and carried off a Boy.

Our Advices from Carliſle are, that all is very quiet there; our People, in general, returning to their Places; and that Fifty or Sixty Voluntiers, from the Frontiers, marched with Colonel Bouquet from Pittſburgh againſt the Enemy.

Our Intelligence from Pittſburgh, of the 26th and 30th ult. is, that that Poſt enjoyed a perfect Calm, not an Indian being to be ſeen on the Communication, by which People with Loads of Butter, Cheeſe, &c. arrived there daily unmoleſted.

On Friday laſt an Expreſs arrived here, in his Way to New-York, with Diſpatches from Colonel BOUQUET to General GAGE, the Contents whereof we have not yet learnt; but from what the Meſſenger heard on the Road, and Hints we have had from ſome Gentlemen from the Weſtward, there is Reaſon to believe they relate to a Peace with the Shawaneſe and Delaware Indians; the Chiefs of whom, it is ſaid, met the Colonel ſoon after he left Pittſburgh, and begged, in the moſt abject Manner, for Mercy and Forgiveneſs, endeavouring to throw the Blame on the other Weſtern Indians, and their young Men; told him they were in a ſtarving Condition, and had not an Ounce of Powder or Lead to hunt for Proviſions, requeſting a Supply for that Purpoſe from him. But that worthy and prudent Gentleman, we hear, refuſed their Requeſt, being but too well acquainted with the horrid Barbarity, Ingratitude, Baſeneſs and Treachery of theſe Nations in particular to the Engliſh, with which, we are informed, he moſt juſtly reproached them, telling them, his Army was ſo exaſperated againſt them, that it was with the greateſt Difficulty he could keep them from falling upon them, and extirpating them from off the Face of the Earth; but that notwithſtanding all their Cruelties and ill Uſage, they might ſtill have Peace, provided they agreed to the Terms, and Security could be had for the Performance of them; letting them know at the ſame time, that before any Propoſals were made to them, they muſt, and ſhould, deliver up all the Priſoners they had, even the White Women that might have intermarried with them, and the Children born by them in their Country.------- Soon after this (our Information runs) the Savages delivered up 17 or 18 Priſoners, and made Returns of 367 Captives they had in all, which they were quickly to bring in.------Thirty Six-Nation Indians, and two White Men, were ſaid to have joined the Colonel, in order, it was thought, to help to ſettle Matters for the Delawares and Shawaneſe.

 A Milch Goat is much wanted for a Perſon going to Sea; any Perſon therefore that has one to diſpoſe of, by applying to Nathaniel Allen, in Front-Street, oppoſite to Joſeph Turner's, Eſq; may depend on a reaſonable Price for the ſame, provided it is brought to him before Wedneſday next.

Philadelphia, ſs.

THE 16th Day of October, 1764, perſonally appeared before me Thomas Lawrence, Eſq; one of his Majeſty's Juſtices of Peace for the City and County of Philadelphia, David Brooks, being one of the Conſtables for the Diſtrict of Southwark, who, on his ſolemn Affirmation, according to Law, doth declare and ſay as follows, viz. Whereas Samuel Bowers, being another of the Conſtables of the Diſtrict aforeſaid, did apply to him, the ſaid David Brooks, for the Copy of an Advertiſement to fix up, according to Law, for the Notice of the Freeholders, and others, Electors of the Diſtrict aforeſaid, to meet on the 27th of September laſt, to chooſe an Inſpector and Aſſeſſor for ſaid Diſtrict, which Election in the Copy I delivered him, was ſaid to be intended to be cloſed at 4 o' Clock of ſaid Day; when thoſe which I affixed in ſeveral Parts of the Diſtrict aforeſaid, ſet forth, that the Election aforeſaid was to be cloſed at 3 o'Clock of ſaid Day, according to Law; which Miſtake or Error was of my own intire making; and I do further ſolemnly declare and affirm, that I never received any Inſtructions or Information from any Perſon or Perſons whatſoever, either directly or indirectly concerning ſaid Election, excepting from Joſeph Redman, Eſq; late Sheriff; but it was occaſioned by my being in too great Haſte in writing and delivering to ſaid Bowers a Copy as aforeſaid, without comparing it with the Original; neither did I know or remember, that it differed, or varied from mine, until the Election was near cloſed, as aforeſaid. And I do further declare, that I had no Intention of creating any Diſturbance, amongſt the People, as has been inſinuated, in order to defame my Character.

Affirmed before DAVID BROOKS junior. ¶

¶ PEYTON and ADCOCK.

THIS is to acquaint the Public, that agreeable to the Notice given by me, I did, on Saturday, the 3d Day of this inst. November, take up the Great Falls, on Schuylkill, to the Ferry Wharff, two Flats, with 4323 Pounds of Hay, in 21 Minutes from the Word given Pull away, under the Disadvantage of the River having less Water than for several Years past, owing to the dry Season. Great Numbers attended, and were highly pleased with the Performance. And it is to be hoped that all Persons, who own Lands adjoining the said River, will further contribute to enable the Commissioners to make it further useful, by clearing other Obstructions, as what is already done hath raised the Prices of Lands. I must now beg to be excused for my inserting in my former Advertisement, a Bett laid of 100 Pounds with Captain Oswald Eve; I, before the Performance, acquainted all my Friends there was no Wager laid, but the Name of that drew there the greater Number of Spectators. JAMES COULTAS.

Lancaster, November 7, 1764.

WAS committed to my Care, a certain Eleanor Saggenson, a strolling Person, and taken up on Suspicion of being a Runaway Servant from William Dickison, in Cumberland County. Her Master, if she has any, is desired to come and pay her Charges, and take her away, or else she will be sold out for the same, by FELIX DONNALY, Goal-keeper. ‡

THIS is to give Notice to whom it may concern, that Richard Ham left a bay Mare in the Care of William Holmes, in the Jerseys, about 4 Miles from Philadelphia, to Pasture, last June, and I the Subscriber understand said Ham has sold said Mare, and will not have any Thing to do with her; these are therefore to give Notice that she will be sold the 24th of this inst. November, to pay the Charges that are against said Mare, unless the Right Owner comes before the Day of Sale.

LONDON, Auguſt 21.

Extract of a Letter from Paris, Auguſt 8.

"THE celebrated Mr. Hume has been allowed by the Preſident of the Iriſh College here to peruſe and make extracts from a curious collection of manuſcript memoirs, in eleven or twelve volumes in folio, compoſed by King James the Second, and all written with his own hand. Theſe memoirs not only comprehended the reign of that unworthy and bungling monarch, who ſacrificed three kingdoms for a maſs, but alſo that of his brother and predeceſſor Charles the Second. They contain a variety of curious anecdotes, ſome important pieces, as yet ſcarcely known but by vague conjectures, and throw light upon ſeveral parts of the hiſtory of that intereſting period. They exhibit, among other things, a particular account of the famous treaty between Charles the Second and Lewis the Fourteenth, whoſe double object was the conqueſt and partition of the United Provinces, and the eſtabliſhment of Popery in Great Britain and Ireland. It is to be hoped, that the learned and ingenious hiſtorian, who has been admitted to a view of theſe arcana of Government, will make a proper and impartial uſe of them, and thus furniſh the friends of both civil and religious liberty, with a new reaſon for remembering with ſatisfaction that happy and glorious revolution that delivered the Britiſh iſles from the bigotry and tyranny of the Stewarts, and placed them under the benign government of patriot Princes of the Brunſwick line. If I am not miſtaken or miſinformed, there is a copy of the famous, or rather infamous, treaty abovementioned, in the memoirs that Mr. Hume has been allowed to peruſe. And this is ſo much the more intereſting, in that the exiſtence of that treaty has been denied by ſome hiſtorians, and never has been hitherto proved, in a demonſtrative manner, by any."

Aug. 25. One day laſt week as the King and Queen were getting out of their poſt chariot at Kew, ſeveral children were gathered round it to ſee them, and among the reſt there was a very fine boy, of four years old, juſt breech'd, who immediately attracted the eye of his Majeſty; and on putting his hand on the head of the lad, aſked him, Whoſe boy he was? the child ſmartly replied, He was his daddy's boy. He was then aſked, who his daddy was? to which he anſwered the King's Waterman. His Majeſty then ordered him to kneel down, and he ſhould kiſs the Queen's hand; to which the boy objected, and ſaid, No, I will not kneel down to kiſs the Queen's hand, becauſe I ſhall dirt my new breeches;---however his Majeſty was ſo well pleaſed with the behaviour of the child, that he gave him two guineas, and the Queen gave him three.

Sept. 1. On the 21ſt of June laſt, the St. Peter, Capt. Heere Ganſz, bound from Hamburgh to Porto, about five o'clock in the afternoon, was attacked by a Pirate, off Beachy-head, who ſhewed Engliſh colours, and whom he took for a Double Sloop or Cutter, having ſix guns on deck, and a long pendant flying. The Pirate fired a gun at them, when they ſtruck their topſail, and hoiſted their jack. This was ſcarce done, before a ſecond gun, with a ball, was fired at them, which the Captain perceiving, ſtooped, or it would have ſtruck him. The Pirates then boarded them, armed with piſtols and blunderbuſſes, which they put to the Captain's breaſt, and forced him into the cabin, where they left him with a man at the cabin door with two loaded piſtols, as a centinel over him. They then went on deck, ordered the hatches to be opened, and the carpenter refuſing to take off the hoops from the hatches, they beat and forced him to do it. They then obliged the mate to unlock the hatches, which, to preſerve his life, he did. They then confined the mate, carpenter, cook, and two other men, in the ſteerage, and being now maſters of the veſſel, loaded their boat with ſheets of copper, which they carried on board their own veſſel, leaving people to watch the Captain and his men, who were priſoners on board their own ſhip; at eight o'clock the ſame evening they went to the Captain, and told him he might go about his buſineſs; upon which coming on deck, he found a great quantity of goods lying, but chiefly pipe ſtaves; but in the hold every thing was cut to pieces and deſtroyed. On the ſecond of July they boarded a ſmall Engliſh veſſel or cutter, armed with cutlaſſes, &c. which had but one gun; this was near Ornay, on the French coaſt, when after aſking ſeveral queſtions, they returned to their own ſhip. The Captain declares, that while he was robbed, a three maſt veſſel was not far off, which made a ſignal, and approached the ſmall one; when the robbery was over, the ſmall one fired a gun as a ſignal.

Extract of a letter from Paris Sept. 5.

"Though we don't know what kind of anſwer our miniſtry have made to the repreſentations of the Britiſh Ambaſſador, about the proceedings of the Count d'Eſtaing at Turk's Iſland, we nevertheleſs preſume that anſwer is ſoft and fair, very fit to turn away wrath for the preſent, admirably well calculated to ſerve the turn of our Court: for ſuppoſing the Count d'Eſtaing has done the Subjects of Great Britain a little damage, only to the amount of twenty or thirty thouſand pounds ſterling, that is but a trifle for our Court to make good, when at the ſame time it puts our good friends in England to a treble or quadruple expence, by way of precaution againſt any future ſimilar pranks. Our Miniſtry are thoroughly ſenſible of the pacific diſpoſitions of our late formidable neighbour, and therefore will only now and then give England a little provocation, as it were accidentally, juſt to keep her in alarm; and afterwards our Court has nothing to do but make a parade of her equity, in ordering reparation for unwarrantable proceedings, till France ſhall be in a condition to avow her intentions openly."

Sept. 10. There is now the greateſt reaſon to believe, with certainty, that the Cyder Act will receive a mortal wound the next Seſſions, as we are confidently aſſured no leſs than 300 Swords of Liberty are whetting againſt the Monſter.

Five brothers, born of one woman, who had not been in company together for more than thirty years, met all together at Crediton, in the county of Devon, on the 28th day of Auguſt, 1764, all healthy men, whoſe ages together amount to 311 years.

Yeſterday a great number of men, many of them Weavers, inliſted themſelves in Spitalfields, and that neighbourhood, as volunteers, to ſerve as ſoldiers in the marching regiments. This is owing to the great encouragement the Great give to the manufactures of France.

Laſt week John Balm was committed to Hertford goal, for robbing Farmer Glaſſcock at Hatfield. The fellow had the impudence to attack the Farmer in a field at harveſt work, and finding he had but little money about him, made him go home to his houſe, where he attended him, and knocked down the Farmer, an old woman, and another woman that was in the houſe, after which he rifled the houſe, and took away whatever he could find that was valuable; but a hue and cry being made, he was purſued and taken.

Tueſday morning, about 5 o'clock, three perſons (committed for various offences) found means to break out of Bridewell; one of them was a ſailor with one leg, and another one Weſt, a notorious pickpocket, who had been double ironed, and the fetters rivetted. Not above three hours after their eſcape, Weſt ſent back the irons in a handkerchief, with a letter, in which he ſaid he was much obliged to the keeper for the uſe of them, but now had no further occaſion for them.

On Tueſday evening a woman, known by the name of One-eyed Kate, who ſold fruit in a barrow about the ſtreets, after uttering ſeveral prophane and blaſphemous oaths, was ſuddenly taken ill, in Monmouth-ſtreet, fell down, and expired immediately.

On Tueſday next will be held a Board of Longitude, in order to conſider of the merits of Mr. Harriſon's curious Time Piece, and, we are informed, that that Gentleman will then produce before the ſaid Honourable Board, his new method of calculating a ſhip's reckoning, which a Gentleman, extremely well verſed in that ſcience, has declared to far ſurpaſs in exactneſs any thing of the kind he could have conceived, or expected to have ever ſeen produced.

Sept. 17. We are aſſured that 10,000 ſeamen will forthwith be raiſed, in order to man the fleet that is now getting ready with all expedition.

Saturday morning ſome of the Cuſtom-houſe Officers received information of ſome china, which was conveying by water; upon which a boat was manned, with an Officer in it, and immediaely begun the chaſe, which laſted upwards of half an hour; when the Officer came up, demanded the china, which was bowls to the number of ſixteen; and upon the perſon's finding the Officer was determined to make the ſeizure, he put his foot into the bowls, and broke them in pieces, then told the Officer he was welcome to them if he pleaſed.

It is computed that there are not leſs than 40,000 perſons in the ſeveral goals in this kingdom for debt.

Saturday about eleven o'clock, the different proprietors of the new-invented preſervatives againſt drowning, met at Black-Friars, to convince the public of the utility of their inventions, and after ſettling ſome diſputes, it was agreed to try them at London-bridge, at which time there was a conſiderable fall; accordingly, two men with cork jackets went through erect, without uſing their arms or legs, one of them having a drawn cutlaſs in his hand; then two men and a woman, with a mob cap on, and red ribbands, dreſſed in air jackets, went likewiſe through, and were followed by two men with the marine collar and belt: they continued dancing in the eddy a conſiderable time, to the no ſmall diverſion of thouſands of Spectators, who ſurrounded them in boats. One of the men in an air jacket preſented the ladies with apples, regaled himſelf with bread and cheeſe, and after which he fired a piſtol: theſe things were contained in his cap made on purpoſe. Upon the whole it was a droll and not indecent ſight, they all being dreſſed in flannel ſhifts and linen breeches.

Friday there was a very Grand Council at St. James's, on affairs of importance.

Friday there was a very Grand Board of Treaſury at the Cockpit, Whitehall.

Extract of a Letter from Scarborough, Sept. 11.

"On the 6th inſt. the freedom of the antient corporation of Scarborough was preſented to the Right Hon. the Marquis of Granby in a gold box, as a proof of their ſenſe of his glorious exploits in Germany during the laſt war; and of their unmerited obligations to his Lordſhip for his particular attachment to that place. His Lordſhip with his accuſtomed generoſity, gave a grand and ſplendid entertainment at Browne's Room, to the Bailiffs and the reſt of the corporation, this day, at which likewiſe were preſent ſeveral of the nobility and gentry that were at the Spa, to the number, in all, of about ſeventy."

A few days ago a dead body was landed at Cadiz, incloſed in a long ſkin, nearly reſembling that of a bear. It was found, with ſeveral others of the ſame kind, in ſome caverns in the Canary Iſlands, where they are ſuppoſed to have been buried before the conqueſt of thoſe iſlands by John Betancourt, a Norman, in 1417, and by Peter de Vera, a Spaniard, in 1483. The fleſh of this body, though dried, is nevertheleſs preſerved, and is not flexible, but hard as wood, ſo that, upon touching the body, it ſeems petrified, though it is not. The features of the face are very perfect, and appear to be thoſe of a young man; nor is that, or any other part of the body, decayed; the body is no more ſhrunk than if the perſon had not been dead above two or three days, only the ſkin appears a little ſhrivelled. This body is ſent to Madrid to be depoſited in the Royal Surgery. The caſe in which this body was placed had another ſmall caſe within it, containing two or three vaſes, and a hand-mill, which were found in the ſame cavern; from which it is ſuppoſed that it was cuſtomary with the old inhabitants of the Canary Iſlands to place the vaſes in their burial places.

HALIFAX (in Nova-Scotia) October 18.

Laſt Tueſday the Right Worſhipful William Spry, Doctor of Laws, in his Scarlet Robes, attended by his Lordſhip Jonathan Belcher, Eſq; Chief Juſtice of His Majeſty's Supreme Court, &c. likewiſe in his ſcarlet Robes, the Gentlemen of the Law in their Gowns and Bands, went in Proceſſion to the Court Houſe, where His Majeſty's Commiſſion, under the Seal of the High Court of Admiralty of England, &c. conſtituting Dr. Spry, to be Judge of his Majeſty's Court of Vice Admiralty over all America, was read and publiſhed; after which the Court being opened, he appointed the Deputy Regiſter, and Deputy Marſhal of his Court, and having admitted the Gentlemen who applied to act as Advocates and Proctors, the Court was adjourned to Tueſday 23d Inſtant. At the opening of the Court were preſent the Right Hon. Admiral Lord Colvill, the Gentlemen of the Army and Navy, and moſt of the principal Gentlemen and Ladies of the Place. In the Evening an elegant Aſſembly was given by Dr. Spry, and Lady, to the Gentlemen and Ladies, and a very genteel cold Collation: The whole was conducted with great Elegance and Propriety, and the Evening concluded to the general Satisfaction of all preſent.

BOSTON, November 8.

Monday laſt being the Anniverſary of the Commemoration of the Preſervation of the Britiſh Nation from the Popiſh Plot, the Guns of Caſtle William, and at the Batteries in Town, were fired at One o'Clcok.

It was formerly a Cuſtom on theſe Anniverſaries for the lower Claſs of the People to celebrate the Evening in a Manner peculiar to themſelves, by having carved Images erected on Stages, repreſenting the Pope, his Attendant, &c. and theſe were generally carried through the Streets by Negroes and other Servants, that the Minds of the Vulgar might be impreſſed with a Senſe of their Deliverance from Popery, and Money was generally given to regale themſelves in the Evening, when they burnt the Images.---But of late thoſe that are concerned in this Pageantry make a Party-Affair thereof, and inſtead of celebrating the Evening agreeably, the Champions at both Ends of the Town prepare to engage each other in Battle, under the Denomination of South End and North End.--- It was thought this would have been prevented on Monday laſt, by a melancholy Accident which happened juſt as one of the Stages at the North End was ſetting off, a Child of Mr. Brown's, about 5 Years of Age, falling down, one of the Wheels went over his Head, and killed him inſtantly; but this did not prevent the Rabble from executing their Deſign.---In the Afternoon the Magiſtrates and other Officers of the Town went to the reſpective Places of their Rendezvous, and demoliſhed their Stages, to prevent any Diſorders, which they did without Oppoſition: Notwithſtanding, as ſoon as it was dark, they collected again, and mended their Stages, which being done, they prepared for a Battle, and about 8 o'Clock the two Parties met near the Mill-Bridge, where they fought with Clubs, Staves, Brick-bats, &c. for about Half an Hour, when thoſe of the South End gained a compleat Victory, carrying off not only their own, but alſo their Antagoniſts Stages, &c. which they burnt on Boſton Neck. In the Fray many were much bruiſed and wounded in their Heads and Arms, ſome dangerouſly; and a few of thoſe who were ſo curious as to be Spectators, did not come off ſo well as they could wiſh; though many would have fared worſe, had it not been a Moon-light Evening. It ſhould be noted that theſe Parties do not ſubſiſt much at any other Time.

We hear from St. John's, in the Province of Nova-Scotia, that on the 30th of September laſt, at 12 o'Clock at Noon, they had a very ſevere Shock of an EARTHQUAKE there.

We hear from Lebanon in Connecticut, that on the 26th ult. a Barn which was owned by a Widow in that Town, and which had 120 Buſhels of Grain in it, was ſet on Fire by a Flaſh of Lightning, and the whole entirely conſumed.

We hear from the ſecond Pariſh in Hingham, that one Mrs. Bourne of that Place (a Perſon peculiarly fond of Children) was on Monday Evening, to the great Joy of herſelf and Friends, ſafely delivered of three Male Children, after having lived upwards of eleven Years in the connubial State, without Offſpring, with one of the kindeſt of Huſbands, and enjoying with an unblemiſhed Reputation every other Species of earthly Felicity.

Saturday laſt arrived here Captain Aitkins, in a Schooner, in 20 Days from Trepaſſey, in Newfoundland, by whom we learn, that on the 24th of September a moſt violent N. E. Storm of Wind or Hurricane began there, which continued with great violence, and without intermiſſion, till the 27th, during which all the Veſſels in the Harbour, being 5 or 6, were drove aſhore, and ſome loſt; Captain Aitkins was drove aſhore, but afterwards got off again, though with conſiderable Damage.---At Ferriland a new Brig and Schooner were drove aſhore, the Brig ſtove, but the Schooner will be got off; the Brig belongs to Captain William Doble of this Town.--- Great Damage is done to the Shipping in ſeveral other Harbours, but our Informant could not learn the Particulars: We do not hear of any lives being loſt.

The Captains Doyle and Caſey of this Town, whoſe Veſſels were drove aſhore in the above Storm, and loſt, came Paſſengers in Captain Aitkins.

ROXBURY, November 10.

"Laſt Thurſday died here the Conſort of Captain SAMUEL STEVENS, in the 78th Year of her Age. She was a ſerious exemplary Chriſtian, and a great Bleſſing in her Station. Her Remains were this Day decently interred (without the Expence of Mourning Apparel) according to the new Method of the Town of Boſton; which meets with general Approbation among us; and it is not doubted this laudable Example will be univerſally followed."

[We are glad to find the new Mode of Burial likely to prevail among our Neighbours in the Country; and, as it is ſo much approved, there is great Reaſon to hope the whole Province will adopt it. The Select-men of each Town, and other Perſons of Reputation, will greatly ſerve their reſpective Towns, and the Community in general, by encouraging it; particularly by an earneſt perſonal Recommendation of it to the Head of any Family that may be bereaved. The Trouble will not be great, as a few Inſtances in each Town, of this neceſſary Oeconomy, will probably be ſufficient to eſtabliſh it therein. 'Tis particularly recommended to the Gentlemen of the Clergy to endeavour to introduce it into their reſpective Pariſhes. The Inculcations of ſo reſpectable a Body, upon this Subject, would have great Weight.]

NEWPORT, November 8.

On Monday Night, the 29th ult. the Store of Meſſieurs John and James Morton, in Thames-ſtreet, was broke open, and ſundry Sorts of valuable Goods, to a conſiderable Amount, were ſtolen. The next Day, Search being made by a proper Officer, the Goods were found at the Lodgings of a Perſon who calls himſelf James Stanners; and, being ſtrongly ſuſpected to be the Villain, was apprehended, and carried before Martin Howard, Eſq; but poſitively denied his committing the Fact, or having any Knowledge of the Goods, though found wrapped up in his Cloathing, and under his Bed. However, he was at length perſuaded to confeſs himſelf Guilty, and that no other Perſon was concerned with him, and was thereupon committed to Goal. The Manner in which he effected this Piece of Villainy, was by cutting a Hole through the Door, and thereby was enabled to lift up the Bar which ſecured it. On interrogating him, he informed, that he commanded a Brig from Liverpool, which he loſt near Cape-Fear, on the Coaſt of North-Carolina, on his Paſſage from Jamaica to Liverpool; that he travelled from Philadelphia to this Town by Land, and had reſided here near a Month.

Nov. 12 On Friday, the 12th ult. arrived at Cape-Fear, from London, the Hon. Col. Tryan, lately appointed Lieutenant-Governor of North-Carolina.

NEW-YORK, November 15.

By the following Letter we have a further Account of the Progreſs of the Army under the Command of Colonel Bouquet.

From the Camp near Tuſcarawas, October 20.

"Our little Army reached this Place after a March of ten Days without halting, thro' a hilly Country, and many Streams to paſs, which gave ſome interruption to our Pack-Horſes: The Savages terrified, and aſtoniſhed to find their Woods will not protect them, are coming in the moſt abject Manner, to beg our Mercy, and aſk for Peace, or they muſt immediately fly away, and abandon their Country. We have had ſome Meetings with their Chiefs, wherein our Commander upbraided them in ſevere Terms for their Cruelties and Treachery; and particularly for their late perfidious Behaviour, in amuſing our Forces on Lake Erie, with a fallacious Peace, and the notorious Lye, that they had recalled their Murderers from our Frontiers, whilſt their Parties were committing the moſt cruel Murders, and continued their Maſſacres almoſt to this Time. They acknowledged every thing and begged Mercy and Forgiveneſs. We march again to the Middle of their Settlements; where they are to bring in all their Priſoners to be delivered up, and there, it is ſaid, we ſhall make Peace with them."

We hear that on Tueſday Night laſt, about 10 o'Clock, 4 French Negroe Slaves, belonging to Perſons in Town, went on board the Sloop Branford, Captain Jones, for Briſtol, armed with long Knives, and attempted to cut her out of the Harbour, and take Poſſeſſion of her, but they were preſently ſubdued and ſecured by the Sailors, and are now in Gaol.

PHILADELPHIA, November 22.

Since our laſt a Gentleman arrived here from Mobille, who favoured us with the Sight of a Letter, which he received after he left that Place, dated the Tenth of laſt Month, in which was the following Paragraph.

"I have no News to offer you from this Place, only that it is now certain the Spaniards are coming to New-Orleans, which is mentioned in a Letter from the King of France to the Governor of the above Place. It was ceded in the Year 1762, and the Spaniards are ſaid to be bringing out a Garriſon of 4000 Men, to take Poſſeſſion of it."

And this Gentleman received another Letter from the ſame Place, in which it was ſaid, that ſome of the Spaniards were actually arrived; and that the French General had given Notice to the Inhabitants, that thoſe of them who were inclined to remain under a Spaniſh Government, were at Liberty to ſtay; and any who had a Mind to remove, Veſſels ſhould be got ready to carry them off.

On Friday Night laſt, between Six and Seven o'Clock, as Captain Alexander Katter was going home, he was attacked by three Men on Society Hill, one of whom laid hold of him, and gave him a Blow; upon which a Scuffle enſued, when a Second came up, and ſtruck him on the Head with a Stick, which ſtunned him, and brought him to the Ground; they then beat and bruiſed him, and brought him to the Ground; they then beat and bruiſed him unmercifully; tore away one Half of his Coat, in which was his Pocket Book, with ſome Money in it, but left him, without taking his Watch, by which he ſuppoſes they were frightened, by the Noiſe of ſome People coming up: He lay there for ſome Time in a ſenſeleſs Condition, till at laſt ſome Perſons going that Way found him, and carried him to his Houſe.

Monday laſt, betwixt the Hours of Twelve and One at Noon, two Women went into the Houſe of Meſſieurs Conyngham and Neſbitt, of this City, when one of them ſtept into the Parlour, on Pretence of ſaying ſomething to Mrs. Conyngham, while the other opened the Store Door, which was double locked, and carried off a Piece of Linen.

And very lately a little Girl, who had been ſent on an Errand, returning back, about the Duſk of the Evening, was ſtopt by a Woman, who took a Velvet Cloak from her, and got clear away with it.

TO BE SOLD,

THE Snow Emera, now lying at Church's Wharff. For further Particulars, enquire of Captain EDWARD WALCH, ALEXANDER KATTER, or JOHN HART. ⊕

By Captain Lawrence, arrived at New-York from Holland, but last from Cowes, we have the following Advices, viz.

CADIZ, Auguſt 14.

THEY write from Gibraltar, that they had received advice, that the Sallee frigate, of 14 guns, was ready to put to ſea; and that it appeared that the ſhips which had cannonaded the fortifications of Mogador, were French, and not Spaniards, as was reported.

Auguſt 21. According to an authentic account, Spain and France have already ſent ſeventy ſhips of the line to the Weſt-Indies, ſince the ſigning the treaty of Verſailles.

Liſbon, Auguſt 7. Don Juan de Braganza, who is appointed by the King General of the ſea, will ſail to-morrow with four men of war, but with what view is not known. It is ſaid that he is going upon a cruize, but as he has embarked his equipages, and has taken upon him the title of Count d'Eſtremos, that report ſeems to be without foundation.

Auguſt 15. By a late accommodation ſettled between the two courts, ſuch Britiſh ſhips of war, or merchantmen, who may have occaſion to touch at St. Salvador, or any other Portugueze ſettlement in the Brazils, are for the future to be ſupplied with every neceſſary, both in war, victualling and furniture, without meeting with thoſe delays, ſo much complained of hitherto by Engliſh cruizers touching there in diſtreſs.

Vienna, Auguſt 29. According to advices from Hungary, a body of 30,000 Spahis [Turkiſh horſe] is actually in march from the environs of Belgrade towards Moldavia and Wallachia; ſo that there are at preſent near 60,000 Turks on the confines of Tranſylvania and Poland.

Genoa, Sept. 8. On the third inſtant, at night, this Republic received an expreſs from Calvi, adviſing, that two Genoeſe armed barks, and two feluccas, fell in with, on the 26th paſt, two Corſican armed barks, one tartan, and three feluccas, in the gulph of St. Fiorenzo. The Corſicans immediately attacked the Genoeſe; but, after an engagement of two hours, the largeſt of the Corſican barks (ſaid to have mounted 18 guns, and 150 men) ran aſhore. During this engagement they likewiſe took the tartan, which had one gun of 18 pound ſhot, and two others of a ſmaller caliber, and ſeveral wall pieces: When this veſſel was taken, there were only eight Corſicans found alive aboard, and two dead. One of the Corſican feluccas, either deſignedly or caſually, blew up whilſt it was engaged with one of the Genoeſe feluccas, and the greateſt part of the crews of both periſhed, or were wounded. After this defeat of the Corſicans, the barks proceeded up the Gulph, and landed the ſuccours they had on board for the beſieged in St. Fiorenzo, and retired to Calvi to refit, &c.

Madrid, Aug. 29. Letters from Liſbon adviſe, that an expreſs extraordinary is arrived there from England, whoſe diſpatches have occaſioned the holding of ſeveral councils; from whence we conclude they have brought very important advices. Beſides which we know, that in Portugal they are fortifying all the frontier places, and providing them with all neceſſaries; that the troops are recruiting with vigour, and that ſuch preparations are making as if we were upon the eve of a war. All this, joined with what is further ſaid, namely, that the court of Liſbon has agreed with that of London, for the purchaſe of ſeveral ſhips, and materials for building more, gives ſome umbrage to our court (Madrid) and cauſes enquiry to be made for what end theſe preparations are carrying on.

Turin, Sept. 1. We have juſt received the following news by letters from Sardinia, of the 17th of Auguſt.

"The Vice-Roy of the iſland had advice, that five half-gallies of Tunis had been ſeen near Cape Bon, and it has been known ſince, that they were deſtined to make a deſcent at Ogliaſtra, in this kingdom. There were then in the port of Cagliari, three Malteſe half-gallies, one of which was commanded by Zelalis, that ſlave, who had been the chief of the revolt of the Turkiſh frigate the Sultana, which was conducted to Malta. Theſe three veſſels took the moſt ſpeedy and beſt concerted meaſures to come up with the Barbarians without being perceived. They put to ſea the 3d of laſt month, and were not diſcovered till they got within two miles of them, when the Barbarians endeavoured to get off, but the Malteſe crowded ſail, attacked the galliots of Tunis, and took three, after a very ſharp and obſtinate engagement: The two others eſcaped during the action. The Barbarians had 46 men killed, and 156 were made priſoners, of whom 40 are wounded. Amongſt the killed is Mehemet Reys de Salonique, who commanded the principal galliot, and who during the combat, attempted ſeveral times, though ineffectually, to grapple. The Malteſe had but 6 killed, and 5 wounded. This enterprize had been directed in part by the counſel and inſtruction of the Vice-Roy of Sardinia."

Copenhagen Sept. 4. The nuptials of their Royal and moſt Serene Highneſſes, the Hereditary Prince and Princeſs of Heſſe, were ſolemnized on Sunday laſt, in the preſence of their Daniſh Majeſties, and the Royal Family; all the foreign miniſters by invitation aſſiſted, and afterwards ſupped, in the uſual manner, at the King's table. The city was ſuperbly illuminated, and all ranks of people ſhewed the utmoſt joy on this happy occaſion. Yeſterday the whole Court waited on their Royal and moſt Serene Highneſſes, with compliments of felicitation; and the evening concluded with a ſupper and ball at the Prince Royal's apartments. This day, being her Daniſh Majeſty's birthday, there will be a ball and ſupper at Court; and to-morrow the Royal Family will return to Friedſburgh: from whence, it is ſaid, the Prince and Princeſs will ſpeedily ſet out for Hanau.

Turin, Sept. 8. There is advice from Genoa, that two Genoſe ſhips, endeavouring to throw ſome ſuccours into St. Fiorenzo, then cloſely beſieged by the malecontents of Corſica, were oppoſed by four ſhips belonging to the Corſicans; and that after a very ſharp engagement, the two Genoeſe ſhips had taken one of the Corſicans, ſunk another, and obliged the two others to run away; after which they brought their ſuccours into the port of St. Fiorenzo.

About a fortnight ago, three Malteſe galliots (of thoſe which are the property of the Great Maſter of the Order of Malta) attacked, on the coaſt of Sardinia, four Algerine xebeques, took three of them, and gave the other chace, though in vain. Thoſe galliots were come, at the requeſt of the Viceroy of Sardinia, to cruize on the coaſts of the iſland, which are infeſted with Algerines: and his Sardinian Majeſty has juſt now ordered his two frigates to ſail out immediately to join the Malteſe ſhips on the ſame cruize.

Carthagena, Aug. 21. The ſquadron which has been fitted out here for La Vera Cruz, compoſed of two men of war, one frigate, and four tranſports, ſailed this day; but it is thought will wait at Cadiz, in order to be joined by the ſhips which are getting ready there for the ſame place. Excluſive of a great quantity of arms and ammunition of all ſorts, about 2000 regular troops are embarked on board this fleet, and ſeveral Cuſtom-houſe officers, whom the Government propoſe to eſtabliſh in Mexico, for the better collecting of his Majeſty's revenues in that part of the world.

Paris, Sept. 14. The court has given orders that the neceſſary arrangements may be taken, that the troops, granted as auxiliaries to the Republic of Genoa, may be embarked as ſoon as poſſible for Corſica. It is reported that this corps, which conſiſts of ſeven battalions, will be augmented.

Peterſburgh, Aug. 28. Two ſixty gun ſhips have been burnt at Revel, and forty perſons have been loſt or wounded. The accident was owing to ſome of the crew of one of thoſe veſſels, who, having ſtole ſome gunpowder, in the diviſion of it let it catch fire.

Utrecht, Sept. 12. A letter received this moment from Germany (but to which we know not as yet what faith is due) gives us the three following pieces of news.

1. That 5000 Spahis [Turkiſh horſe] arrived the 8th of Auguſt at Choczim, on the frontiers of Poland, where a numerous corps of Janiſſaries was hourly expected to join them.

2. That orders had been given for the immediate march of 36000 of the Auſtrian troops into Croatia and Sclavonia. And

3. That a ſtroke of great policy (upon which, it is pretended, they are as yet obliged to be ſilent) has occaſioned a revolution in the affairs of Poland.

Hamburgh, Sept. 15. We have juſt received advice, that General Laudon is actually aſſembling an army of 90,000 Auſtrians, on the frontiers of Hungary; that a courier ſet out for Peterſburgh from Vienna the firſt inſtant; and it was the general opinion, that the moſt vigorous oppoſition would be made by the two courts to the farther entrance of the Turks into Poland.

Leghorn, Sept. 3. Com. Harriſon is at Portmahon, from whence he had orders to go over to Algiers with four men of war, and demand ſatisfaction of the Dey for the inſult committed againſt the Britiſh Conſul.

Warſaw, Sept. 8. The ceremony of the election of Count Staniſlaus Poniatowſki to the crown of Poland, paſſed the 6th inſtant with the moſt perfect unanimity of the ſuffrages of the whole nation, delivered by the different Palatinates aſſembled for that purpoſe: And yeſterday he was proclaimed by the name of Staniſlaus Auguſtus, and conducted to the court and palace thro' the acclamations of ſeveral thouſand ſpectators. The Primate announced the election to all the foreign Miniſters, who, in conſequence thereof, demanded audiences this morning; and they accordingly had the honour to pay their reſpects and congratulations on his happy acceſſion to the crown.

Berlin, Sept. 18. Laſt Saturday the King of Pruſſia arrived in this Capital from Sileſia, accompanied by the Prince Royal, and Prince Henry of Pruſſia, the Hereditary Prince, and the two Princes of Brunſwick. His Pruſſian Majeſty, ſoon after his arrival, had a levee, at which the foreign Miniſters here were preſent. The next morning the King of Pruſſia ſet out from hence for Potzdam, where, in all probability, he will remain for ſome time, as there will, on the 27th of this month, be a camp formed in that neighbourhood, which is to be compoſed of the troops in garriſon at Potzdam, Spandow, and Brandenbourg, and of two or three regiments from this place; they have received orders to hold themſelves in readineſs to march againſt the 25th or 26th inſtant.

LONDON.

September 15. The merchants are extremely uneaſy that the ſettlement of the damages ſuſtained by the infraction of the late peace at Turks Iſland, is left to a man of ſo bad a character as the count d'Eſtaign, and a gentleman of ſo eaſy a temper as the Governor of Jamaica. It is certain the fiſheries of the New-Englanders will fall greatly ſhort this year, through this affair, for want of ſalt.

It was this morning currently reported, that our ambaſſador at Paris, by laſt Wedneſday night's diſpatches, actually received orders to inſiſt on more ſubſtantial ſecurity from France than the parole royal. But whether this was to conſiſt in the delivery of any place of ſtrength, or the ſending over hoſtages, is not aſcertained.

It is now ſaid, our court will oppoſe any deſign the Spaniards may have formed, to effect a ſettlement on the coaſt of Guiney; which is contrary to ſeveral antient treaties now ſubſiſting between the two crowns.

September 20. Printed bills are ſtuck up in ſeveral parts of the town, and in different priſons, offering 30s per month wages, and expences borne to Portſmouth, to any ſailor who will immediately enter to ſerve on board the fleet at preſent fitting out there.

We hear three companies of foot will embark the latter end of this month for Newfoundland.

The very unequal diſtribution of prize money in the royal navy, we are informed, has for ſome days paſt been under the conſideration of an honourable Board; and it is now ſaid, that, excluſive of a moderate monthly augmentation of ſeamens wages, it has alſo been propoſed, for the greater encouragement of that uſeful body of men, the common ſailors, that full one fourth of the prize money may be ſet apart for the uſe of the foremaſtmen, in all future captures.

September 22. Letters from Senegal mention, that advice has been received there from Governor Debatt, of Gambia, that a French frigate, of 36 guns, double manned, with the governor of Goree on board, was come into the river Gambia; that the French behaved with great inſolence, telling the Engliſh they were determined to force a trade in that river; and that they had entirely prevented Governor Debatt from receiving freſh proviſions.

September 25. A perſon of a ſcheming turn, has a plan to lay before the government, whereby he propoſes a ſaving of 50,000l. ſterling annually, without any new taxes.

On Monday laſt, a couple that had been out-aſked at Marybone church, went thither to be married. As the Rev. Mr. Boot was reading the ceremony, when he came to the words, "Wilt thou have this man to be thy wedded huſband?" The woman anſwered, No. And upon the miniſter's aſking the reaſon, ſhe ſaid, 'I have told him ſeveral times I would not marry him.' The clergyman then aſked her, why ſhe came to the church? ſhe replied, 'I came to tell you I will not marry him;' and immediately went away with two men who came to attend the ceremony, leaving the diſappointed bridegroom in the church.

Letters from Liſbon of the 29th ult. bring advice, that his moſt Faithful Majeſty has not only approved and confirmed all the military regulations made by Count de Lippe, but has heaped alſo immenſe riches and other extraordinary favours on that Nobleman; which has occaſioned ſome of the Portugueſe Nobility to look on the Count with a jealous eye.

We hear that ſome very extraordinary diſpatches were yeſterday received in regard to the behaviour of the French at Newfoundland.

A courier is arrived from the Court of France, who brings advice that they are about to declare war againſt the government of Algiers, and requiring us to concur with them in that meaſure, or at leaſt to engage not to furniſh the Algerines with warlike ſtores, or afford them any other aſſiſtance whatever.

The following naval expeditions are now ſaid to be reſolved on: A Commodore, with three ſhips of the line, and two frigates, for the coaſt of Guiney: An Admiral, with five ſail of the line, and three frigates, for Newfoundland: An Admiral, with ſix line of battle ſhips, for the Eaſt-Indies, to touch at the Spaniſh Philippines: A Commodore in the Mediterranean, and another to reinforce the fleet already on the Weſt-India ſtation.

Extract of a letter from Plymouth, Sept. 18.

"Yeſterday evening arrived here the Spy ſloop of war, Capt. Philips, in 13 days from Newfoundland, which came expreſs for London. By this ſhip we hear, that the French have (what they never had before on that ſtation) a fleet of men of war, conſiſting of a ſhip of 60 guns, one frigate of 36, two ſtore ſhips of 20 guns, a ſloop of 14 guns, and upwards of 80 ſail of large ſhips employed in fiſhing, carrying from 10 to 20 guns each, and above 5000 people curing fiſh on ſhore; and it was thought they intended to fortify St. Peter's; which, at preſent, we are not able to prevent, being much inferior to them in force."

September 27. They write from Warſaw, that on the eve of the opening of the Dyet of Election, when Count Staniſlaus Poniatowſki formally declared himſelf a candidate for the Crown, he told the Waywodes and Magnates, That if they knew any one whoſe zeal for the country ſurpaſſed his own, he would renounce his deſign, and give him his vote.

The poſtſcript of a letter from Warſaw, dated September 3, runs thus, "Some advices already bring, that the election of a King was actually made on the 7th, and that Count Staniſlaus Poniatowſki re-united all voices in his favour."

It is ſaid another detachment from the Train of Artillery will ſoon embark for Newfoundland, in order to fortify ſome places of ſtrength, ordered to be erected in ſome of the moſt important places along that coaſt.

Letters by yeſterday's mail bring an account of 200 of the Whiteboys coming to Dungannon, in the county of Tyrone, when they demanded a ſum of money of the Mayor and Corporation; upon which a party of dragoons was ſent for. Juſtice Knox attempted to read the riot act, but was obliged to deſiſt, otherwiſe he would have been murdered. There was an obſtinate engagement between the Dragoons and Whiteboys, but the former obliged them to retire with the loſs of 28, beſides 25 which were taken priſoners.

We are informed that our Ambaſſador's demands for the reimburſement of the national expence in the maintenance of French Priſoners in England, during the late war, has been abſolutely rejected.

It is ſaid our Court have received a tolerable ſatisfactory account with regard to the payment of Canada bills, which will either be ſoon called in and diſcharged, or converted into actions in the French funds, at the rate of ſixty-three per cent. bearing intereſt from their reſpective dates.

A Governor lately arrived from the Eaſt-Indies, had four hundred thouſand four per cents. transferred to him in one day at the Bank.

They write from Berlin, that the Sieur de Verelſt, Envoy Extraordinary from the Republic of Holland, ſet out the 21ſt inſt. from thence for the Hague, on ſome affairs of importance that are on the carpet between the King of Pruſſia and the States of Holland.

By advice from Vienna, of the 8th inſt. we learn, that Count Laſcy was ſet out from that place to take upon him the command of the troops now aſſembled in Bohemia.

Private letters from Auſtria, dated the 5th inſt. explain the motive for the Turks being in motion on the frontiers of Hungary; which is, that they are only, in conformity to a reſolution of the Ottoman Porte, declared laſt Summer, ſending troops to Oczakow, Bender, and Choczim, to change the garriſons, and to repair the fortifications of thoſe places, without any deſign to break the peace and good underſtanding which ſubſiſts between the Turkiſh Empire and its neighbours.

Letters from Cadiz, dated the 25th ult. bring advice, that the final orders of the Court of Spain were arrived there, fixing the day for the ſailing of the fleet, bound to Vera Cruz, for the 31ſt ult.

Two couriers arrived at Berlin, on the 15th inſt. with the important news, that the election of a King of Poland was happily accompliſhed on the 7th of this month at Warſaw, in the perſon of Count Poniatowſki, Grand Butler of Lithuania; and that he had been proclaimed, under the name of Staniſlaus Auguſtus, King of Poland, and Grand Duke of Lithuania. This election was carried on with an unanimity unknown hitherto in the annals of Poland.

It is ſaid that an expreſs arrived on Thurſday from our Ambaſſador at the Court of Madrid, with the agreeable news, that his Catholick Majeſty had ſent poſitive orders to his officers near the Bays of Honduras and Campeacky, to reinſtate the Engliſh log-wood-cutters in their employ, according to the treaty of peace, and to make full ſatisfaction to the Engliſh for all the injuries they have received.

Some foreign advices ſeem to intimate, that war has already been declared againſt Denmark by the Dey of Algiers.

We are informed that the late ſatisfactory anſwers from the Courts of Paris and Madrid, are ſo far from lulling the watchful eyes of our Miniſtry aſleep, that the naval preparations are ordered to go on with the uſual diſpatch; eſpecially as it appears from undoubted intelligence, that theſe two powers, in the midſt of their pacifick proteſtations, are leaving no ſtone unturned, to render their marine, both in Europe and America, as formidable as ever.

It is ſaid commiſſions are come over by the laſt mail, to build nine thirty-gun frigates for the ſervice of Portugal.

Yeſterday was held a board of trade, when ſeveral ſchemes, calculated for the advantage of the American colonies, were approved by the commiſſioners, ſome of which, we are informed, will be ſpeedily carried into execution.

October 2. Laſt Wedneſday ſailed from Portſmouth his Majeſty's ſhips the Eſſex, Hon. Capt. George Falconer, and the Africa, Hon. Capt. Gower. It is ſaid they are going to the coaſt of Guiney, and from thence to proceed to the Weſt-Indies.

They write from Berlin, that extraordinary military preparations are making throughout the Pruſſian dominions; but the motive was not known.

It is ſaid there have, for ſome days paſt, been the greateſt appearance for a perfect unity and coalition of parties, that has been experienced for ſome years.

We are informed, that an expreſs was laſt Sunday morning ſent off from Plymouth to Newfoundland.

They write from Liſbon, that the Court of Madrid, no longer able to behold with a placid eye the great naval and military preparations of his Moſt Faithful Majeſty, and the perfect unanimity at preſent ſubſiſting between that kingdom and Great-Britain, have at laſt begun to manifeſt their jealouſy in ſomething more than words, as undoubted intelligence had been received, that for ſome time paſt the Spaniards have been marching ſeveral regiments from the interior provinces, eſpecially from thoſe of Arragon and Caſtile, with intent to form an army of obſervation on the ſide of Portugal; and that large quantities of heavy artillery were daily arriving on the frontiers.

BOSTON, November 15.

One Evening laſt Week a young Man, named Philip Hitchbourn, hearing a Cry of Fire, imagining it to be at his Father's, ran out of a warm Shop with only a Jacket on into the cold Air, which chilled his Blood in ſuch a Manner that he fell into a Lethargy, and died in a few Hours. He was decently interred on Monday laſt: A great number of Perſons attended the Funeral, which was in the new eſtabliſhed Method.

We hear from Portſmouth, in New-Hampſhire, That on Thurſday Night the 1ſt inſt. about 10 o'Clock, a Woman of that Town, having her Child, about ten Months old, in her Lap, fell aſleep by the Fire Side, when the poor Infant rolled into the Fire, and before ſhe awoke it was burnt ſo terribly that it died the next Day.

We hear from Dorcheſter, that at ſeveral Funerals lately in that Town, the Relations of the Deceaſed, and others, have followed the new Method now eſtabliſhed in Boſton: And that thoſe who have been choſen Bearers to the Remains of the Deceaſed to the Grave, have refuſed the uſual Preſents of Gloves, to prevent a needleſs Expence to the ſurviving Relatives.

NEWPORT, November 19.

Capt. Hammond, arrived here from London, ſpoke with, on the Banks of Newfoundland, the Ship Edward, Capt. Davis, from New-York for London, out 15 Days; all well.

NEW-YORK, November 22.

A young Man lately come from England, ſome few Days ago gave in Payment to his Landlady, a Bill of Thirty Pounds, which he drew on an eminent Houſe here. The Word accepted was at the Bottom of the Bill, but no Accepter's Name: However, his Landlady received it, but the Cheat being detected he was committed, on Friday laſt, to the New Goal.

Sunday was committed to Goal (by Francis Filkin, Eſq; Alderman of the South-Ward in this City) One William Jackſon, charged before ſaid Alderman with privately ſtealing out of the Dwelling Houſe of Martin Kreuder, of German Town, near Philadelphia, A Silver Watch, five French Crowns, a Guinea and Half, beſides other Money, and Effects, the Property of a German (or Dutch) Miniſter, who boarded in the ſaid Kreuder's Houſe.

On Monday Night laſt, an Officer arrived Expreſs from the Army to the Northward, from whence we have received Advices, that Colonel Bradſtreet had broke up his Camp at Sanduſky, on the 18th of October; having firſt engaged many of the upper Nations, with whom Peace had been concluded, to declare againſt the Shawaneſe and Delawares, and to ſend Parties out to War againſt them. That about Seventy Miles from Sanduſky, the Lake roſe in the Night on a ſudden, and the Surf beat with ſuch Violence on the Shore, where the Army had landed, that betwixt Twenty and Thirty Boats were beat to Pieces, notwithſtanding the Efforts made to ſave them: The Night was very dark, and little elſe than the ſmall Quantity of Proviſions that was in them could be ſaved. The Army proceeded to the Grand River, about Seventy Miles farther, which they entered in a Storm: The tempeſtuous Weather having the Appearance of continuing, and the Boats being deeply laden, by receiving the additional Men from the Boats which were loſt, a Number of the beſt Marchers marched along the Lake Side, and the Indians took to the Woods.----The Men who marched, were for a Time relieved by other Men from the Boats; but Proviſions being out, and a Snow-Storm upon the Lake, about Two Hundred Men puſhed on for Fort Erie, in which they ſuffered greatly, and would have ſuffered more, had not the moſt advanced been relieved with Proviſions and Boats, from Fort Erie, in Conſequence of Colonel Bradſtreet's Directions, ſent by Expreſs. The Remainder, except a few Miſſing, were taken up by the Boats on the 2d Inſtant, and the Army arrived at Niagara; from whence, the Regular Troops, and ſome Provincials, ſailed in the Veſſels on the 9th Inſtant; The reſt of the Army being left to follow in Boats under Lieut. Colonel Putnam. The Veſſels arrived at Oſwego on the 11th Inſtant, in a great Storm, in which the Snow Johnſon was loſt, going into the Oſwego River; By this Accident, ſome Baggage and Arms were loſt, but the Men are happily ſaved.

On Friday laſt, the Brig Polly, Captain Tudor, ſailed from this Port for Penſacola, with ſeveral Officers, Privates, Drums, &c. belonging to the Royal Train of Artillery, being Part of thoſe lately arrived in the Sally, Capt. Curtis.---And Yeſterday ſailed the Ketch Mercury, Thomas Kennedy, with Stores, &c. for the ſame Place.

Nov. 26. The following letter was wrote from the commander of the Viper ſloop of war, to Archibald Kennedy, Eſq; commander of the Coventry, in this port, dated, Viper ſloop, Cape Fear, Octo. 24.

"As I have this opportunity to write to my Lord Colvill, by meeting Mr. Tongue, who will take it to New-York, ſhall beg the favour of you to forward it, as it contains a misfortune I lately met with, I ſhall give you a ſhort account of. The 5th inſtant at noon, had a hard guſt of wind, with ſmart rain; clewed up all the ſails, and handed all but the mizenſail, which blew to pieces; the wind ſhifted from the S. E. to N. E. and N. W. and laid her hatches in the water, which made me heave over 4 of the lee guns, and was cutting away the mizen maſt, but the wind blew it away 14 feet above the deck, tho' the mizen topſail yard was on deck, and the topmaſt ſtruck. The main-maſt was ſprung in two places; the ſloop not righting, nor veering, obliged us to cut away the main-maſt; ſhe then wore, and made good weather.---I am ſorry to acquaint you the Epreuve, Captain Blake, is loſt, and all periſhed. Governor Wright's Lady and Daughter were on board.

I am, Sir, Yours, JACOB LOBB."

PHILADELPHIA, November 29.

Our Advices from Fort Loudoun, of the Twenty-ſecond Inſtant, are, that all was well on the Frontiers; and that they expected ſoon to hear of the Arrival of the Army at Pittſburgh, from the Indian Country.

The Captains Warden and M'Nutt are arrived here from Londonderry.

Captain Cobourn, from Cowes, on his Paſſage ſpoke with Captain Thompſon, in a Ship from London for this Place, 14 Days ago, who had then been out 7 Weeks. And four Weeks ago he ſpoke with Captain Smith from Falmouth for this Port.

On Tueſday Night laſt, betwixt the Hours of Nine and Ten, the Counting-houſe of Mr. Humphrey Robinſon, in Second-ſtreet, was broke open, and robbed of between Fifty and Sixty Pounds in Caſh.------And one Day laſt Week, about the Duſk of the Evening, a Shop in Front-ſtreet was robbed of ſome ſmall Matters in China, which the Thief or Thieves carried a little Way in the ſame Street, till they came to a Dry-good Shop, where they left it, and carried off ſome Check Linen, and Handkerchiefs, in its Room.

 The late Mr. GODFREY's Poems are now in the Preſs, and will be finiſhed towards the Cloſe of the Year; the Printer of them being thronged with a Multiplicity of Buſineſs, has been the Cauſe of their not being publiſhed before this. Thoſe Gentlemen who are inclined to encourage this Publication, are requeſted to ſend in their Names to either one of the Places mentioned below, where Subſcriptions are taken in. At the London Coffee-Houſe, Mr. Henry Miller's, Meſſieurs Rivington and Brown's, and at Mr. David Hall's.

The MEMBERS of the
St. ANDREW's SOCIETY

ARE deſired to attend their Anniverſary Meeting, at the Lodge, in Lodge-Alley, Second-ſtreet, on Friday, the 30th Inſtant, at Six o' Clock in the Evening.
